ROCÍO RUIZ ARAGONESES

Jose María has always had the upmost interest in attaining a suckling pig that was both rich and at the same time well-balanced from a nutritional point of view. After meeting Dr. Mataix, a professor of nutrition at Granada University, at a nutrition and health conference, and after telling him about his search for the highest quality in this product, Mataix expressed great interest in helping him, in part because this was also new to him; up until that time only the nobler parts of the pig had been studied, such as hams, loins... José María commissioned a quantitative analysis of one of our roasted piglets, which was carried out at the Institute of Nutrition and Food Technology at the University of Granada. After several weeks, we received an exhaustive study with the analytical results, and in addition the Doctor provided us with an informal summary of his interesting conclusions:

"Dear José María:

You sent a suckling pig to me at the Institute of Nutrition, and in a separate note I am notifying you of the scientific findings in terms of numbers and bars.

First and foremost it is my duty to congratulate you and to thank you for the untiring efforts that you put into the bodily health of your diners, and yet no less high are your demands for the care of their spirits, through the pleasure of the table and the tenderness of your roasted pig.

As for the quality of the fats, I must say, there are plenty of monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fatty acids, which are the ones that are recommended for a healthy diet. Obviously there is also so-called saturated fat, which although not advisable, is not present in excessive quantities. But also without it, your suckling pig would not have that crunchy textural richness or that rainbow of sensations that transpose one to that gastronomic paradise, where many foods are called upon and yet few are chosen, and among these latter, dear Jose María! is your suckling pig.

And without further ado, I send you a most well-deserved greeting and my admiration for the skills of your unparalleled cooking."

Dr. J. Mataix
